Between closing a subscription campaign, and going through a building campaign, the News force has put in a rather hectic week. The end is in sight—that is, the end will be within a week or so, and the sight of the mess and dirt looks good.

Someone asked what in thunder the News wanted with such a big building. Can't always tell. This is the third time in 19 years we have moved the plant, each time to larger quarters, and this is absolutely the last and final. The News has grown and prospered to some extent during the past 19 years. It is a mighty poor outfit which does not pin its faith in the town that is its home, that has been kind to it, and which it loves. Its a mighty poor business which will not re-invest a large part of its earnings back into the business; business is not all a take proposition; giving back to the community in the way of improvement is the part of any business house. Therefore this expansion of the News plant, so that's that.

And still talking about the News, this newspaper can boast of one of the most complete subscription lists of any paper in the state. In checking the list this week, it is found that there is hardly a home in the Canyon territory which is not receiving the News. That is an invitation to advertisers. They may reach the real buyers of this territory more cheaply by advertising in the News than by any other method. The News furnishes the readers; it furnishes the reader interest; it takes the message to those whom Canyon advertisers wish to reach; it furnishes every facility for advertising illustrations, in fact it is spending more than $500 per year for illustrations which are offered free to advertisers; the News will do everything in its power to give service to the advertiser; but the advertiser has a responsibility as well as the newspaper; the advertiser must prepare copy which is attractive to the reader; he must furnish goods which are standard and at right prices; and after that he must furnish store service which will be acceptable to the buyer. The News is making a mighty effort to render a real service to its advertisers, and seeks to please. That it has been of service in the past 19 years is clearly shown by the progress made; it is now up to the News and to its patrons to work hand in hand to make this progress double during the coming few years.

It looks like h. s. got started talking about this plant and couldn't get sidetracked for anything else. But it pays occasionally for a newspaper to take its readers and its advertisers into its confidence. Frankly, the News has some other development in mind for the next year, or the next, or some other year. We have two machines in mind which will greatly add to the productivity of the plant, and render a great service to the readers of the News. When these machines will be installed depends a great deal

$5,000,000 IS THE
DAMAGE ASKED
FOR IN SUITMISS MAMIE DUNAWAY SEEKS TO RECOVER OIL LANDS.

J. M. Sanford of Amarillo Defendant in Big Suit Filed at Stinson by Dunaway Estate.

Suit for a total of $4,875,000, involving for the most part large acreage of Hutchinson County oil lands, Friday was filed in Eighty-fourth district court. It was styled Mamie Dunaway et al versus J. M. Sanford, et al, and is said to be one of the largest lawsuits ever filed in West Texas.

Miss Dunaway brought the suit in the name of the children of Mrs. Mattie Dunaway of this city. Sanford lives in Amarillo and is a wealthy oil and cattle man.

The petition alleges that on Sept. 15, 1926, plaintiffs were lawfully seized and possessed of one-half interest in fee simple to certain designated lands, and that on the third day thereafter the defendants unlawfully entered upon the specified premises and ejected plaintiffs therefrom and unlawfully withheld from them their property.

Premises described are as follows: Survey 2, Block X30, H. & O. B. Ry. Co., original grantee; surveys 76, 78, 80, 82, and 85, all in block 46, H. & T. C. original grantee, Hutchinson County, lot 6, block 1, and lot 6, block 201, all in the Holland and Glidden and Sanborn additions to the city of Amarillo.

The suit also is for $3,000,000 damages, $1,000,000 on alleged waste and royalties, and $875,000 for three years rental.

Literally dozens of Hutchinson county corporations and industries together with many out of state corporations and partnerships and individuals are cited as defendants in the case.

Another committee was appointed to discuss the route of the road west. W. A. Warren was chosen to head the committee. An investigation of a brick plant proposition was authorized and a report will be made later.

on conditions. But as some one said the other day, "the thing we like about the News is that it always keeps about two jumps ahead of Canyon," so you may not be surprised at any time to hear of great improvements being made in the News plant.

If h. s. is able to claw the sawdust and plaster out of his eyes by next Thursday, he will probably be able to talk about something else besides the News, and the ambition of the News to always be a leader in newspaperdom on the plains.

Drainage Contract for Highway South
Let to Two Firms

The contract for drainage and grading the new highway south from Canyon to Happy was let Tuesday in Austin. Two contracts were covered in the letting, Field and McCelvey of Lubbock getting work which amounted to $33,837.40 and J. W. Ziemper of Amarillo getting $13,492.39 for a portion of the work.

The north end of the paving, Canyon to Amarillo, has been accepted, and it is expected that the south section to the Oldham place will be accepted this week.

The last of the paving under the viaduct was completed Tuesday, and Engineer A. E. Dyatt states that the entire highway will be opened within 20 days. He states that cars may use the highway north of the Oldham place to Amarillo, but that the detour markers will remain as they are now owing to the heavily loaded trucks and busses being unable to travel the mile west from the Oldham place. Mr. Dyatt states that the 1300 feet leave out will be paved either in November or it may be possible that it must wait until spring.

Condemnation proceedings have started against some of the right-of-way south of town, and must be completed before work is started on the drainage and grading. Nothing has been heard from the route for the highway west.

Cradginton told of the fight made by the plains section for the location of the College. He saw a great future for this country, and likewise for the College. Buffaloes Go Into Action Friday at Plainview 3:30 p.m.

Coach Claude Reeds will get a view of his pupils in action tomorrow afternoon at Plainview, when the Buffs meet the strong Jackrabbit team for the first game of the season.

Fundamentals in football have been the main stress of the two weeks training which closes today, and while not a large variety of plays are planned by the new mentor for the Jackrabbit game, these plays have been drilled upon during the past week.

Scrimmage has revealed the fact that the Buffs have much power in the squad, and while the team work has been very satisfactory to the coach during the past week, it is hoped that closer team work will be developed in the first game.

Coach Reeds is whipping a definite combination into shape, for he is expecting strong opposition in this opening game. He has been giving plays and line formation for the past two weeks, and daily workouts continue under his and Coach Burton's directions and the Herd is going to have a hard hitting eleven.

Another 6 feet 1 inch, weighing 185, candidate walked into training camp Monday morning, and asked for a uniform. His name is Milton Cotton from Vega, and he plays center.

Unusually successful from the very first, The Canyon News' subscription campaign closed triumphantly last Saturday afternoon at 4 p. m., leaving this paper with a circulation larger by far than it had hoped to secure. Now The News enters more homes in this territory by many than ever before. The subscription list now practically covers one copy to every home in the county, a coverage supreme and unchallenged.

The campaign workers found The News easy to sell, and all won prizes or cash commissions, as announced below. Miss Mable Leavitt won the Grand Capital Prize, the Chevrolet coach, and Miss Helen Woods the Second Grand Award, the Majestic Electric Radio.

The News believes the workers built up a lot of good will for the paper because they sold it on its merits, and wishes to thank each and every worker for the interest manifested and the good work done.

The News wishes to thank the judges who made a systematic and thorough count of credits to declare the winners. Harry V. Wheat, of the American Circulation Service, of Dallas, and recognized by the Texas Press Association as a leader in circulation campaigns, conducted the campaign for The News.

Drainage Contract for Highway South Let to Two Firms

The contract for drainage and grading the new highway south from Canyon to Happy was let Tuesday in Austin. Two contracts were covered in the letting. Field and McCelvey of Lubbock getting work which amounted to $33,837.40 and J. W. Zeemter of Amarillo getting $13,492.39 for a portion of the work.

The north end of the paving, Canyon to Amarillo, has been accepted, and it is expected that the south section to the Oldham place will be accepted this week.

The last of the paving under the viaduct was completed Tuesday, and Engineer A. E. Dyatt states that the entire highway will be opened within 20 days. He states that cars may use the highway north of the Oldham place to Amarillo, but that the detour markers will remain as they are now owing to the heavily loaded trucks and busses being unable to travel the mile west from the Oldham place. Mr. Dyatt states that the 1300 feet leave out will be paved either in November or it may be possible that it must wait until spring.

Condemnation proceedings have started against some of the right-of-way south of town, and must be completed before work is started on the drainage and grading. Nothing has been heard from the route for the highway west.

Golf Professional Shoots Wicked Game

He has started a class here, and will come on Mondays and Thursdays to give lessons to Canyon players who wish to improve their game. Those who have taken lessons are highly pleased with results.

Buffaloes Go Into Action Friday at Plainview 3:30 p.m.

Coach Claude Reeds will get a view of his pupils in action tomorrow afternoon at Plainview, when the Buffs meet the strong Jackrabbit team for the first game of the season.

Fundamentals in football have been the main stress of the two weeks training which closes today, and while not a large variety of plays are planned by the new mentor for the Jackrabbit game, these plays have been drilled up on during the past week.

Scrimmage has revealed the fact that the Buffs have much power in the squad, and while the team work has been very satisfactory to the coach during the past week, it is hoped that closer team work will be developed in the first game.

Coach Reeds is whipping a definite combination into shape, for he is expecting strong opposition in this opening game. He has been giving plays and line formation for the past two weeks, and daily workouts continue under his and Coach Burton's directions and the Herd is going to have a hard hitting eleven.

Another 6 feet 1 inch, weighing 185, candidate walked into training camp Monday morning, and asked for a uniform. His name is Milton Cotton from Vega, and he plays center.

Unusually successful from the very first, The Canyon News' subscription campaign closed triumphantly last Saturday afternoon at 4 p. m., leaving this paper with a circulation larger by far than it had hoped to secure. Now The News enters more homes in this territory by many than ever before. The subscription list now practically covers one copy to every home in the county, a coverage supreme and unchallenged.

The campaign workers found The News easy to sell, and all won prizes or cash commissions, as announced below. Miss Mable Leavitt won the Grand Capital Prize, the Chevrolet coach, and Miss Helen Woods the Second Grand Award, the Majestic Electric Radio.

The News believes the workers built up a lot of good will for the paper because they sold it on its merits, and wishes to thank each and every worker for the interest manifested and the good work done.

The News wishes to thank the judges who made a systematic and thorough count of credits to declare the winners. Harry V. Wheat, of the American Circulation Service, of Dallas, and recognized by the Texas Press Association as a leader in circulation campaigns, conducted the campaign for The News.

Getting a Husband

By Bernarr Macfadden

In spite of the freedom girls today enjoy, there is a large group of young women who cannot get husbands. It is for them that beauty and charm columns are run in the newspapers.

These columnists tell you that you must be neat in appearance, a good housekeeper, a fine cook, modest and yet entertaining, and that you must never let a man see your faults. I do not doubt that many girls are impressed by this information.

But this is shallow. It makes serious, fundamental principles out of superficial frills. It may be one way of getting a husband, but it is not the best way. Nor will it hold him.

Getting a husband does not depend upon the fragrance of your perfume, the color of your hair, your ability as a cook, nor the amount of "come-hither" in your eyes.

Getting a husband depends fundamentally and primarily, upon the amount of physical attraction you possess. And I do not mean that a girl must be vampish or even beautiful.

The amount of physical attraction a girl possesses depends upon how much of a real woman she is. A real woman is strong. She can run and jump and wrestle. She swims, plays tennis, enjoys walking. You know at a glance that she would bear normal, healthy children. She is full of vigor and enthusiasm. Vivacity is her greatest charm. Every cell in her body and brain is alive and functioning. Life, to her, is an interesting and thrilling experience. She drains every moment of all it holds.

I am not discounting the value of such womanly virtues as cooking, housekeeping and neat appearance. Nor am I ignoring beauty or charm. But I do say that these so-called beauty experts over emphasize these attributes.

Every girl should know that sex attraction is not a game of love, but a powerful tool in the hands of Nature through which the propagation of the human race is assured. The more pronounced the sex characteristics, the greater the attraction. Whatever your natural endowment may be you can further emphasize it by paying proper attention to physical culture rules.

WHAT IS A BOY

He is a person who is going to carry on what you have started.

He is to sit right where you are sitting and attend to those things you think are so important when you are gone.

You may adopt all the policies you please, but how they will be carried out depends upon him.

Even if you make leagues and treaties, he will have to manage them.

He is going to sit at your desk in the Senate, and occupy your place on the Supreme Bench.

He will assume control of your cities, states and nation; your prisons, churches, schools, universities and corporations.

All your work is going to be judged and praised or condemned by him.

Your reputation and your future are in his hands.

All your work is for him, and the fate of the nation and of humanity is in his hands.

So it might be well to pay him some attention.—Boy's Club News.

HE RUNS HIS BUSINESS

Not long ago our Credit Department had difficulty in collecting the account of a certain customer. After writing one or two diplomatic epistles without results, they sent a rather terse demand for payment. In due time they received the following letter:

"Dear Sirs: What do you mean by sending me a letter like the one you wrote on the tenth inst.? I know how to run my business.

"Every month I place all my bills in a basket, and then figure out how much money I have to pay on my accounts. Next I blindfold my bookkeeper and have her draw as many bills out of the basket as I have money to pay for.

"If you don't like my way of doing things I won't even put your bills in the basket."

She: You don't see so many intoxicated people on the street since prohibition.

He: The stuff kills them before they get out the door.—Bison.

You may adopt all the policies you please, but how they will be carried out depends upon him.

Even if you make leagues and treaties, he will have to manage them.

He is going to sit at your desk in the Senate, and occupy your place on the Supreme Bench.

He will assume control of your cities, states and nation; your prisons, churches, schools, universities and corporations.

All your work is going to be judged and praised or condemned by him.

Your reputation and your future are in his hands.

All your work is for him, and the fate of the nation and of humanity is in his hands.

So it might be well to pay him some attention.—Boy's Club News.

HE RUNS HIS BUSINESS

Not long ago our Credit Department had difficulty in collecting the account of a certain customer. After writing one or two diplomatic epistles without results, they sent a rather terse demand for payment. In due time they received the following letter:

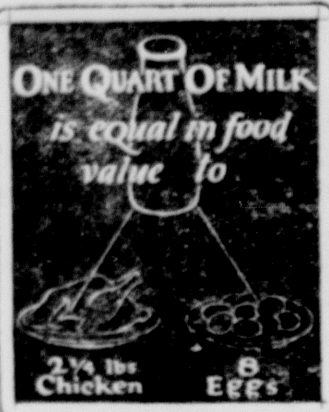

"Dear Sirs: What do you mean by sending me a letter like the one you wrote on the tenth inst.? I know how to run my business."

"Every month I place all my bills in a basket, and then figure out how much money I have to pay on my accounts. Next I blindfold my bookkeeper and have her draw as many bills out of the basket as I have money to pay for."

"If you don't like my way of doing things I won't even put your bills in the basket."

She: You don't see so many intoxicated people on the street since prohibition.

He: The stuff kills them before they get out the door.—Bison.

Low Rates For Fair Visitors During Next Week

One-cent fares to Amarillo from various Panhandle points will be offered by the Rock Island, Santa Fe, and Fort Worth & Denver railways on Wednesday, Sept. 25, which has been designated as Early Settler's Day by the Tri-State Fair Association, Wilbur C. Hawk, president, announced today.

Thousands of persons from every section of the Panhandle are expected to take advantage of these rates to attend what is predicted will be the greatest fair in the history of this section.

Mr. Hawk said that practically every Home Coming society in the Panhandle is planning a program which will draw pioneers into the city for the big home coming day.

Perhaps Home Coming, or Early Settlers' Day, will attract more general interest than any other day of the fair, owing to the unusual program being arranged by the committee in charge of this event. Col. E. Rasmus Tack has been selected to be the principal speaker to address the Old Timers, and neither time nor money will be spared to make that day a complete success, it was said.

H. W. Clutter, passenger agent of the Rock Island; F. B. Poole of the Fort Worth & Denver, and Tom Gallaher of the Santa Fe have assured the fair association that unusually low rates would be given throughout fair week.

With the opening of the fair less than a week away, all superintendents of the various divisions are working overtime to complete arrangements for his annual fall pageant of farm products. Approximately 25 amateur con-

Here's How

BY E. W. HOWE
"The Sage of Potato Hill"

VOLTAIRE, A MASTER VIRTUE STAYING POWER

Frequently a reader encounters these two words: Voltaire said. . . . I always read what follows; sometimes I do not understand it, occasionally I disagree, but always I recognize a master mind and hand.

Some will not read him; they have heard he was a mean and foolish little man. On the contrary, he was so unusual that he is still encouraging or distressing his fellow men.

If you read of Napoleon you soon note he had a good deal of respect for Voltaire. You have undoubtedly heard of Frederick the Great, who had the advantage of being a king to start with. Voltaire was a much smarter man; he has had far greater influence on the world. In spite of faults inevitable and natural in any human machine, Voltaire came nearer having intelligence than any other living organism.

I give him no credit; he simply had it. Instead of being born a pitiful fool, he was born with the world's greatest mind. Some of the famous prophets were weaklings compared to him; Mahomet's personal history convicts him frequently of being an ass—indeed, I know of no great mystic among rulers who had a really good mind. Voltaire won his fame as fairly as has evolution; every scholar has added him up, and given him great credit. This long introduction to a quotation from Voltaire I just encountered in reading: "All men are equal; but it is not birth but virtue which makes them so."

In the gross sentimentalism of our conversation and reading the declaration that we are all equal is a favorite; but remember that a man really able to think says you are only equal to another if you have his virtues.

And virtue is a simple word; it means a high average in the sort of conduct the world has decided is good. The dictionary gives some pages to the word virtue, but it all condenses into this: a high average in fairness, honesty, industry, temperance, usefulness in small or great ways, and thrift in health and business.

And the lowliest of us may profit from the practice of virtue.

I have received many letters in a single delivery of mail, and not one of real interest; but I received one today that caused me to take notice. "The heroics of human life," said the writer, "do not consist in spectacular circumstances; in great deeds, or in the taking of cities, but in the staying powers we have for the monotony of little things that make up the long hard seige of living and behaving creditably." . . . This, it seems to me, is wise; had I encountered it in Emerson or Aristotle, I should have been moved no more than I was by this utterance of one of the plain people of 1929.

A. Warren and Mrs. J. B. Sikes entertained. The group, arriving at the club grounds about 8 o'clock, had a delicious picnic supper and two hours of fun before returning home. It was planned that at the next meeting election of officers for the coming year will take place.

Is Stubble Burning
Good Farm Practice?

What should be done with straw left on a wheat field after the wheat has been combined? Should it be burned? Some farmers favor burning the stubble, some think it is poor farming to burn the straw. An experiment being conducted on the farm of A. E. Ford, master farmer of Garfield county, Okla., sheds some light on this important question.

Data on two crops have been obtained from the studies on Mr. Ford's farm. The yields in 1928 for three plots on which the stubble was burned were 22.7 bushels, 17.9 bushels and 19.1 bushels. Yields on plots where stubble was burned for the year 1929 were 14 bushels, 11 bushels and 13.7 bushels. The average yield on the three plots was 16.4 bushels.

The yields in 1928 for three plots on which stubble was not burned were 21.1 bushels, 16 bushels, 16 bushels and 17.5 bushels. In 1929 the yields on the three plots where stubble was not burned were 12 bushels, 10 bushels and 13 bushels. The average yield on the three plots where stubble was not burned was 14.9 bushels.

The data show a slight advantage in favor of the plots which were burned; however, what will happen after such a practice is continued for several years can only be determined by experiment. In the wheat-growing areas of the state of Washington where burning of the wheat stubble has been a common practice after the wheat was combined, the organic matter has been so depleted that the soils are blowing badly and the farmers now realize that organic matter must be conserved.

GREATEST NEWSPAPER

There are some publications in the large cities which "admit" that they are not the world's "greatest newspapers." In an address at the MPA meeting by G. S. Crane, of the Campbell-Ewald Co., one of the largest advertising agencies, the following interesting statements were made:

"The greatest newspaper in North America is not published in New York City. Chicago has none that compares with it. Florida or California's largest cities know it not. For the greatest newspaper in North America yields ten times the influence, is read by a hundred times more readers, carries inestimably more pages of advertising than any newspaper in any great city in this continent of ours.

"The greatest newspaper in North America gets closer to its readers, is read longer, believed in more confidently determines the outcome of more elections, exerts a greater power for progress, sells more merchandise and rights more wrongs than any metropolitan daily ever published.

"The greatest newspaper in North America is issued 11,500 editions, fifty-two times a year, published in 11,000 separate newspaper offices in 8,000 different towns and villages throughout the United States, which offices occupy a combined floor space far in excess of that afforded by the great Woolworth building of New York and the great Wrigley building in Chicago.

"The business of this greatest newspaper in the aggregate would astound even the president of America's largest industrial corporation. The greatest newspaper in America is the home-town paper better known to most of us as the country weekly."—Newport Beach, (Cal.) News.

DESPISED FACE WASHING
CHILD'S PLEASURE NOW

Stormy scenes at face-washing, hair brushing and manicuring hours for children are gradually disappearing and much hated tasks are becoming a pleasure now, says Helen Rawson Cades, beauty expert.

Modern mothers instead of letting their own appearance run down, keep up with their toilet activities and the children, always imitative, are eager to learn the methods of grown-up grooming. Brightly colored toilet articles, such as brushes, combs and manicure sets, and pleasant smelling toilet preparations enable the children to have actual fun in performing their little duties, adds Miss Cades. She also observes that instilling the desire to be a properly groomed child does not tend to make it vain, but conscious of being in good taste. Mothers cannot afford to act as examples of carelessness, either with themselves or in developing children's habits.

Many a girl has her mother to blame for a mouth that even a lipstick can't love, and many a man wears a mustache because his mother couldn't bear to make him take his finger out of his mouth," the writer concludes.

TOO MUCH PREPARATION

The reason that so many men never seem to get anywhere, in spite of a lot of hard work is because they wear themselves out getting ready to tackle a job.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S CLUB

A delightful ride on a moonlight night, everybody's high spirits, and plenty of good eats were largely responsible for the rollicking good time reported by the twenty members of the Business Women's Club who attended the meeting on last Thursday evening at the Canyon City Club when Mrs. W. A. Warren and Mrs. J. B. Sikes entertained. The group, arriving at the club grounds about 8 o'clock, had a delicious picnic supper and two hours of fun before returning home. It was planned that at the next meeting election of officers for the coming year will take place.

MRS. DOWLEN ENTERTAINS

Friday afternoon Mrs. C. M. Dowlen entertained a group of her friends with a forty two party at her home on Fourth Avenue. She was assisted by Mrs. Glen Dowlen. The house was beautifully decorated in dahlias, roses and other flowers. There were three tables of forty-two.

A two course lunch was served. The first course was poinsettia salad, sandwiches, potato chips, and ice tea. The second, Angel food cake and ice cream. Favors of small nut baskets were given the guests.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Ferguson of Happy.

Is Stubble Burning
Good Farm Practice?

What should be done with straw left on a wheat field after the wheat has been combined? Should it be burned? Some farmers favor burning the stubble, some think it is poor farming to burn the straw.

An experiment being conducted on the farm of A. E. Ford, master farmer of Garfield county, Okla., sheds some light on this important question.

Data on two crops have been obtained from the studies on Mr. Ford's farm. The yields in 1928 for three plots on which the stubble was burned were 22.7 bushels, 17.9 bushels and 19.1 bushels. Yields on plots where stubble was burned for the year 1929 were 14 bushels, 11 bushels and 13.7 bushels. The average yield on the three plots was 16.4 bushels.

The yields in 1928 for three plots on which stubble was not burned were 21.1 bushels, 16 bushels, 16 bushels and 17.5 bushels. In 1929 the yields on the three plots where stubble was not burned were 12 bushels, 10 bushels and 13 bushels. The average yield on the three plots where stubble was not burned was 14.9 bushels.

The data show a slight advantage in favor of the plots which were burned; however, what will happen after such a practice is continued for several years can only be determined by experiment. In the wheat-growing areas of the state of Washington where burning of the wheat stubble has been a common practice after the wheat was combined, the organic matter has been so depleted that the soils are blowing badly and the farmers now realize that organic matter must be conserved.

GREATEST NEWSPAPER

There are some publications in the large cities which "admit" that they are not the world's "greatest newspapers." In an address at the MPA meeting by G. S. Crane, of the Campbell-Ewald Co., one of the largest advertising agencies, the following interesting statements were made:

"The greatest newspaper in North America is not published in New York City. Chicago has none that compares with it. Florida or California's largest cities know it not. For the greatest newspaper in North America wields ten times the influence, is read by a hundred times more readers, carries inestimably more pages of advertising than any newspaper in any great city in this continent of ours.

"The greatest newspaper in North America gets closer to its readers, is read longer, believed in more confidently determines the outcome of more elections, exerts a greater power for progress, sells more merchandise and rights more wrongs than any metropolitan daily ever published.

"The greatest newspaper in North America is issued 11,500 editions, fifty-two times a year, published in 11,000 separate newspaper offices in 8,000 different towns and villages throughout the United States, which offices occupy a combined floor space far in excess of that afforded by the great Woolworth building of New York and the great Wrigley building in Chicago.

"The business of this greatest newspaper in the aggregate would astound even the president of America's largest industrial corporation. The greatest newspaper in America is the home-town paper better known to most of us as the country weekly."—Newport Beach, (Cal.) News.

DESPISED FACE WASHING
CHILD'S PLEASURE NOW

Stormy scenes at face-washing, hair brushing and manicuring hours for children are gradually disappearing and much hated tasks are becoming a pleasure now, says Helen Rawson Cades, beauty expert.

Modern mothers instead of letting their own appearance run down, keep up with their toilet activities and the children, always imitative, are eager to learn the methods of grown-up grooming. Brightly colored toilet articles, such as brushes, combs and manicure sets, and pleasant smelling toilet preparations enable the children to have actual fun in performing their little duties, adds Miss Cades. She also observes that instilling the desire to be a properly groomed child does not tend to make it vain, but conscious of being in good taste. Mothers cannot afford to act as examples of carelessness, either with themselves or in developing children's habits.

Many a girl has her mother to blame for a mouth that even a lipstick can't love, and many a man wears a mustache because his mother couldn't bear to make him take his finger out of his mouth," the writer concludes.

TOO MUCH PREPARATION

The reason that so many men never seem to get anywhere, in spite of a lot of hard work is because they wear themselves out getting ready to tackle a job.

One of life's most pathetic spectacles is that of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Q. Whooziss trying to keep the wolf from the door with a mashie-niblick.

HAGENBECK-WALLACE CIRCUS TO ENTERTAIN THOUSANDS AT BIG AMARILLO TRI-STATE FAIR

Little Junior or Mary at Amarillo will not need any extra effort to slip from their beds the morning of September 23rd. With the first call they will spring to the floor, dress hurriedly, swallow their breakfasts and hustle toward the tracks of the railroad. The one important reason for all this activity is Circus Week—Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus Week. Every youngster in Amarillo will be anxious to be on hand for the unloading of the long trains and many of them will follow the canvas-covered wagons to the circus grounds at the Tri-State Fair Grounds at Amarillo. A huge crowd is sure to be in evidence when the circus is being detrained while additional hundreds are certain to be assembled at the grounds. Sturdy working men will make an easy job of the herculean task of erecting the mammoth top top, as well as the many other big and little tents. Within a few hours after the first wagon reaches the fair grounds, the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus will be ready for the afternoon and night exhibitions. Performances start at 2 p. m. and 8 o'clock every afternoon and evening of the fair, with the menagerie doors opening one full hour in advance. Thousands of visitors from over the entire Pecos-Rio-Pecos are planning to "kill two birds with one stone" by going to Amarillo September 23rd to 28th and seeing both the circus and the greatest Tri-State Fair ever assembled.

"Skyscrapers" for Hens Latest on Poultry Farms

"Skyscraper" apartment houses for hens are the latest developments in the poultry world and if they prove successful the lives of chickens will soon be completely revolutionized.

On Walnut Hills poultry farm just outside Columbus, Ohio, John C. and B. C. Morse have erected a six-story structure bigger than a barn for his 7,000 egg layers.

Another hen apartment house movement has been started in New Jersey, where a four story hen house is in operation and has 10,000 tenants. In other New Jersey communities similar houses of smaller size are being used. The idea of large houses for laying hens is partly due to the scarcity of tracts of land large enough to accommodate large flocks, but poultrymen believe that housing their hens prevents worm infestation and keeps down disease. The owner of the four story hen apartment is now planning a still larger building which will hold 100,000 hens. He believes that egg production will be increased.

If the experiment of keeping chickens in confinement works out as expected, says the article, it will be the biggest revolution in poultry raising that has ever been seen.

FOOD FOR REFLECTION

By John Joseph Gaines

The newspaper is the great educator of the masses today. Where one reads a two dollar book, five thousand read the five cent daily. Since this is true, the editor should spend a good deal of his time on his knees, it seems to me, with his mind fixed on the Giver of all good; none the less should the contributor for the newspaper wrestle in prayer; if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall in the ditch.

I go to my newspaper every day for information—for counsel. Such of it as I don't like, I don't take. Since humanity is pretty much the same the world over, I assume that you do the same.

I am interested in the legislative problem of reapportioning the states for the purpose of securing better representative government; I am not interested in the kind of hosiery worn by the king of Siam or the sultan of Turkey.

Which leads to the thought: If our daily newspapers were shorn of much that is the merest rubbish, there would be less volume, but more that is useful to our people. . . . The Sunday edition might be cut almost half!

"O," some one says, "we are not all alike; some want to know about the king of Siam—the sultan of Turkey; they must have Sunday reading." I grant it. But our aim, it seems to me, should not be to kill time, but to store our minds with useful information. There would be a more useful citizenry if men and women busied their minds with things calculated to make the world better.

I'd rather study business, or even politics on Sunday, than possible championships in utterly useless occupations. Life is too short to waste valuable time in worthless things.

I like my paper to contain, first of all, news. Next, such leisure readings as cannot fail to be instructive to me in things calculated to elevate and uplift a frail or faltering humanity.

HANDS NEED MORE CARE THAN FACE, SAYS EXPERT

Hands need more care than faces, according to Hazel Rawson Cadees, beauty expert.

"Housework never hurt anybody's face," she says. "The exercise you get from sweeping is just as good a circulation stimulator as a beauty treatment and lots cheaper. With your hands it's different. You can't pickle and plant and then just put on your diamond rings and go out to a party. Hands need constant care as well as best manicuring. Not even the thing of your hands if you do not take an interest in them every day."

"Rubber gloves are clumsy, but try to wear them for heavy work if you can possibly stand them. You can also do a lot for your hands by using mild cleansing agents. Warm olive oil or melted cocoa butter rubbed into the hands at night keeps the skin lubricated and prevents the cuticle from breaking. If your hands are thin and bony, massage them gently with melting cocoa butter."

"Never put a brilliantly colored polish on a homely hand. If you use liquid polish, select one that wears well without discoloring. Do not cut your cuticles unless they break and need trimming. Push them back gently with the towel when you dry your hands."

SPELLS OF BACKACHE

"I HAVE used Cardui at intervals for sixteen years, when I suffered from weakness, and it always helped me," says Mrs. J. W. Jinnright, R. F. D. 2, Troy, Ala.

"Mostly I was afflicted with bad spells of backache. At times I felt as if my back would break. I would drag one foot after the other, in a helpless sort of a way, and once I got down in bed. My husband urged me to take Cardui, and I soon found what a fine medicine it really was. "When my second child was little, I was in very bad health. I did not pick up as I should have. I was weak and sickly. I do not believe that I would have come through, but for Cardui."

This wheat was grown from Certified Turkey Red Seed Wheat bought last year by County Agent Upchurch in Kansas. It was planted on summer fallowed ground free from Johnson grass and was cut with new combines, so that there is no other wheat mixed with it.

It is absolutely dry, as a windrowing machine was used to dry it.

The crop produced 40 bushels an acre this year on 200 acres, 8,000 bushels in all for sale.

Price $1.50 a bushel at Wm. Ash Farm, or $1.80 a bushel sacked, re-cleaned and treated for smut with copper carbonate.

SPELLS OF BACKACHE

"I HAVE used Cardui at intervals for sixteen years, when I suffered from weakness, and it always helped me," says Mrs. J. W. Jinnright, R. F. D. 2, Troy, Ala.

"Mostly I was afflicted with bad spells of backache. At times I felt as if my back would break. I would drag one foot after the other, in a helpless sort of a way, and once I got down in bed. My husband urged me to take Cardui, and I soon found what a fine medicine it really was. "When my second child was little, I was in very bad health. I did not pick up as I should have. I was weak and sickly. I do not believe that I would have come through, but for Cardui."

and how much pleased he was with the work of the institution. Dr. B. E. Masters, president of the new Amarillo junior college, stated that the work of the junior college was to dig up and find new material which would not ordinarily go to college. and how much pleased he was with the work of the institution.

Dr. B. E. Masters, president of the new Amarillo junior college, stated that the work of the junior college was to dig up and find new material which would not ordinarily go to college. The junior college was created to be a feeder to the senior colleges, and this was his mission in Amarillo. He predicted many more students from Amarillo in this institution on account of the junior college.

J. O. Guleke, member of the Board of Regents, called attention to the progress which had been on the plains during the past 50 years, and he was certain that much greater progress would be made during the coming 50 years. The seven teachers colleges are now training 65 per cent of the teachers of the state. The institution here is one of the greatest in the state. The legislature is not allowing the money which is needed for the teachers colleges.

"FLAMING YOUTH" SANE ON MARRIAGE QUESTION

"Flaming youth," accused of holding revolutionary ideas and of practicing unheard-of customs is entirely sane on the subject of marriage, according to Professor C. G. Dittmer, of the sociology department of New York University.

A questionnaire was submitted to 285 boys and girls of the University and fifteen questions asked referring to marriage in general and companionate marriage specifically.

The sober self-analysis of the replies," says Professor Dittmer, "reveals an attitude toward romance that might seem to an older generation too dispassionate, too sophisticated, closer to the laboratory than to gardens drenched in moonlight."

"The results of the questionnaire show that young people expect to do exactly what society expects from them in the matter of homes and children; what they demand is not the inconstant flame but a steady light on the common way that men, women and children must travel toward mankind's ultimate goal."

The students placed twenty-five years, on the average, as the age at which they expect to marry and the word "responsible" appeared over and over in the replies of both boys and girls.

"FLAMING YOUTH" SANE ON MARRIAGE QUESTION

"Flaming youth," accused of holding revolutionary ideas and of practicing unheard-of customs is entirely sane on the subject of marriage, according to Professor C. G. Dittmer, of the sociology department of New York University.

A questionnaire was submitted to 285 boys and girls of the University and fifteen questions asked referring to marriage in general and companionate marriage specifically. The sober self-analysis of the replies," says Professor Dittmer, "reveals an attitude toward romance that might seem to an older generation too dispassionate, too sophisticated, closer to the laboratory than to gardens drenched in moonlight.

"The results of the questionnaire show that young people expect to do exactly what society expects from them in the matter of homes and children; what they demand is not the inconstant flame but a steady light on the common way that men, women and children must travel toward mankind's ultimate goal."

The students placed twenty-five years, on the average, as the age at which they expect to marry and the word "responsible" appeared over and over in the replies of both boys and girls.

WHY ARE SANDWICHES

Sandwiches are named for the Earl of Sandwich, of the 18th century. He was such an inveterate gambler that he could not take time for meals, but instead had his servants bring him slices of meat between two pieces of bread.

Entered at the postoffice at Canyon, Texas, as second class matter. Published weekly at office, 1513 Fourth Avenue, Canyon, Texas.

The meeting held Thursday night at the College by Amarillo and Canyon citizens is another indication of the fine spirit which exists between the two towns. Amarillo has shown a great interest in the College, which is increasing year by year, and will greatly increase during the coming years with the completion of the paved highway. With 120 teachers in the Amarillo schools who have had work in the College here, and with an ever increasing number of students coming here annually from Amarillo, this friendly spirit will increase. That the Amarillo junior college will be a strong friend and loyal supporter of the College was the word brought by the President of that new institution to Canyon citizens Thursday night. The fact that the West Texas State Teachers College will be closer to Amarillo than S. M. U. is to much of the city of Dallas is causing more students every year to drive daily from their homes to the College, and will greatly increase the usefulness of the College to the people of Amarillo.

Finishing touches are being placed on the Randall county exhibit for the Tri-State Fair. That it will be a very creditable showing no one doubts, although W. H. Upchurch is modest in his predictions as to the possible winning at the big fair. This county has a better average at the Tri-State Fair than any exhibitor, and likewise at the Dallas Fair. In fact, Randall county has topped all counties of this section at the Dallas Fair and would have done so again this year had not a great spirit of co-operation predominated and it was decided to throw the county exhibit in with the Panhandle-Plains exhibit which will be taken to the Dallas Fair. Presenting a solid front of all counties at the Dallas Fair will do more good for the Plains country as a whole, although individual counties may suffer a little from the lack of separate publicity. This co-operative movement on the part of the counties of the Plains shows a splendid spirit, and Randall county citizens will highly endorse the proposal of Mr. Upchurch to join with the other counties at Dallas rather than show separately.

Clarendon News: Amarillo is getting her junior college started this year, following a demand from the citizenship of that city for such a school. This is a step that The Clarendon News predicted Amarillo would take when all the agitation was going the rounds about moving Clarendon College to that City. The News pointed out then that Amarillo as a city had no desire for a denominational school, that she was too close to Canyon for a senior college to prosper until Panhandle population was greatly augmented, and that the junior college idea would soon spread to Amarillo and that they would establish such a school at no distant date. Very few Clarendon people ever thought that Amarillo was trying to take the Methodist college away from this city, and subsequent developments have absolutely vindicated Amarillo's intentions insofar as seeking to take from a neighbor any cherished institution. We congratulate Amarillo on her junior college and wish it large success, even as we hope for the enlargement and growth of our own junior college.

That Randall county is paying out a lot of good money to house its prisoners in the Potter county jail has not been sufficiently brought to the attention of the taxpayers. A movement was started two years ago to build a new jail, but the proposition was stopped when so many asked the commissioners to postpone action until a more favorable time. When it may be proven that a new jail will spell economy to the taxpayers, there will be no opposition on the part of the taxpayers. Shedding more light on the cost of keeping the prisoners in the Potter county jail is the information which the taxpayers seek, and the only sure way by which the voters may be induced to favor the erection of a jail. Of course jails are hardly erected as a matter of civic pride, but as a means of protection to society, and are sort of a necessary evil.

The passing of Judge Thomas F. Turner of Amarillo marks the death of another great man who had no small part in the building of the wonderful Panhandle. He came early to the Plains. He saw a vision. He had faith in that vision, but he did not rely upon the works of nature to develop this section. He went to work, and as a result, Judge Turner was one of the best known and best loved men ever produced in the Panhandle country. His passing was tragic in that he had many useful years before him—years he would have spent usefully for the benefit of mankind. Tom Turner was a real man, one of God's noblemen, and thousands of women and men are better today because he has lived and worked among the citizens of the Plains.

To keep a sweet disposition while the plaster and saw dust is falling down your neck is a mighty hard thing to do, but this is the experience of the News force during the process of rebuilding the office. We hope that the public will be kind during this period of remodeling, and we know that they shall. The work of the printing plant will be carried on with as little interruption as possible, and as small delays in the production of business as the torn up condition of the building will permit. Thanks, awfully, for the kind consideration.

Wellington Standard: Another editor we know pretty well is Clyde Warwick of the Canyon News. who stood for law and justice. He was hated, and feared by the element of darkness which follows the oil boom. Law-abiding citizens will trust that his slayer will be brought to speedy justice.

Fred Robinson of Waco is being boosted for governor. He is a newspaper man of the old guard, and is performing queer antics, possibly for the purpose of causing favorable consideration. He is for good roads, but wants the license fees and gas tax reduced. He is for progress, but deprecates high taxes, and promises reductions all along the line. His announcement sounds more like a professional politician than anything yet appearing in the gubernatorial arena.

The Tri-State Fair will be on in Amarillo next week. This is the fair of the Panhandle, and every citizen should go to the fair for at least one day, and view the wonderful exhibits. In view of the fact that the gates are free for the fair, an entire family may visit the exhibits for a very small amount of money, which will be a good investment. Go to your fair—the Tri-State Fair.

Lubbock high school has put the ban on bare legs. The warning has been issued that the fad will not be tolerated. After first warning, students who break the rule will be sent home. The Lubbock high school flapper will have a hard winter, but the dean of women say there are few of that variety.

VALUE OF GOOD PAINT

The dollar and cents value of paint for farm buildings can be easily determined by comparing any two houses, one of which has been painted regularly and the other irregularly. Historic Mount Vernon, home of George Washington, built in 1743, for example, is still in good condition, thanks to paint.

When estimating the cost of a painting job, it is never wise to skimp on the quality of paint purchased, for it is a relatively small part of the total cost of painting. The labor cost is usually three times the cost of the paint, and to that must be added the cost of brushes, ladders and incidental materials. The cost of the paint is often less than one-fourth the total cost of painting.

Using the best paint for the purpose for which it is used will put off from one to three years the necessity of repainting.

SUN WORSHIPERS NOW

Our present day sun-worship is another phase of the awakened interest in healthy bodies. It's a long way from the sun cure for rickety children to sun vogue for Palm Beach faces, but fashion takes just such flights.

THEY ALL DO

Low Flying Airplanes Said to Be Costly to Cattle-Raising Farmers

You can run two weeks' feed off of a steer in five minutes, declare stockmen who have protested to the State Game Fish and Oyster Department against airplanes flying over their herds and the hunters shooting ducks and geese from the planes and against hunters entering their fields without permission and firing recklessly among their cattle.

"We are going to stop the practice of hunting from an airplane and of shooting at game while riding along the highways in an automobile," promised S. D. Turner, district game warden.

"If a hunter flies over your ranch in an airplane and fires at ducks or geese or other game, get the number of his plane which is painted in large figures on the underside of the wings. Send me that number, tell me the place and time the incident happened and I'll do the rest," he promised. If you see a hunter shoot game from an auto, follow the same procedure. Get the license number of his car, state where and when the incident happened and mail it to me at Amarillo.

"It is not the sportsman who scares your cattle, tears down your fences, endangers your life or that of your family by reckless shooting," declared Mr. Turner. It is the amateur hunter. When he breaks the law get his auto license number and sent it to me. The laws will be strictly enforced at every opportunity," stated Mr. Turner.

TEN RULES FOR EATING

Let the population arise and hail Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, New York city health commissioner, who broadcasting wise words for health over the radio, summed up with these "ten rules for healthful eating":

1. Don't bore your stomach with a monotonous diet.
2. Don't despise the lowly turnip and onion.
3. Don't scorn the cheaper cuts of meats; when properly cooked with vegetables they are better than a diet of chops.
4. Buy fresh vegetables when they are plentiful.
5. Don't be afraid to try new dishes.
6. Adopt a cosmopolitan menu—become acquainted with minestrone, goulash, Irish stew, pig knuckles and sauerkraut, and a ragout with vegetables.
7. Don't eat too much sweets.
8. Drink several glasses of water daily.
9. Do real cooking. Good health will not last with last-minute meals.
10. And the last, as it should, sums up the whole. If we are, or become, a nation of dyspeptics it will be because of the degeneration of the kitchen and the art of cooking. In grandmother's day the kitchen was a kitchen. It had not come down in state to that of an unimportant room where meals were hurriedly put together at the last minute while the family motor car cooled off in the driveway.

But, says Dr. Wynne, the case is by no means hopeless. There is the factor of cheapness and variety of food nowadays, encourages more pretentious home cookery. And then there is the fireless cooker, which enables the housewife to cook foods as thoroughly as grandma did without grandma's disadvantage of having to spend most of her waking hours in the kitchen.

BIG TRI-STATE FAIR FEATURE

"Mary," the 80-year-old debutante with the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus, has been trouping up and down the country for so many years that she knows it is far wiser to obey than resist, so one word from Miss Rae Bailey and "Mary" does her stuff. In fact, all of the elephants with Hagenbeck-Wallace are exceptionally talented and are said to be the best trained "bulls" with any circus.

Cheerful Gardner, master elephant trainer, spent much time during the past winter instilling additional knowledge into his charges and the new routines are a bit unusual for elephants. Everything from an elephant barber shop to a Charleston contest is offered by these ponderous pachyderms.

Many changes have been made in the Hagenbeck-Wallace performances since its last appearance here and this year's program is said to be the best in history. Hagenbeck-Wallace comes here and gives two performances daily during the Tri-State fair, September 23 to 28, Amarillo, Texas.

FOUNDATION OF CHARACTER

That children's clothes play an

S. L. INGHAM

of their adult character is the latest discovery of psychologists.

"A mother dresses a child according to her own ideals and the child lives up to its clothes," says Jane Warren Wells, discussing the new discovery. On the other hand, she continues a child may be dressed so plainly, so "common-sensibly," that its beauty loving nature and personality will be warped. Actual tests show that children smile more readily when surrounded by bright, beautiful colors than by drab, ugly ones. There are inexpensive materials in every tone, says the writer, and finding the right color is not a hard task.

"Teachers say that the well-dressed child often performs best in school even though the balance of brains may be in favor of a poorly dressed playmate," adds Mrs. Wells. "Educators tell us that nothing succeeds like success. Apparently either may become a habit. Habits of neatness, habits of good taste, habits of success—it's quite a way to travel from our sewing baskets. But, after all, that only makes the sewing baskets more interesting to know that instead of sewing only seams and garments, we are actually shaping character and destiny."

EXERCISE FOR CHARACTER BUILDING—
By Bernarr Macfadden

Many people think that the purpose of exercise is for body-building only; that it simply strengthens the muscles and speeds up the vitality generally. The truth however is that one cannot build up his body without at the same time increasing his mental powers and strengthening his character.

Why is this so? Because the brain and the body are so closely related that when you impair or improve one you cannot help but affect the other. Many a serious illness has been cured through mental science, and many a weak mind has been strengthened by first building body strength. The most noticeable effect body-building has on the mind is the self-confidence and courage it gives.

No one—man or woman—can get very far in this world without a plentiful supply of courage. The courageous person depends on himself. He makes his own decisions and can put up a good fight if necessary—whether it is to put through a big business deal or simply a fight waged in defense of some principle he believes is right.

On the other hand, men who are powers in the business and financial world have been known to make serious mistakes and go "all to pieces" when some body's weakness overtakes them. They begin by vacillating and end by making a decision too late or else making the strong decision. They lose their judgment and perspective, and they lose also the confidence of their business associates.

When you hear it said of a man that "he is no good—he hasn't any backbone," you can be fairly certain that it is almost literally the truth. In all probability that man's lack of stability is due to a weak backbone. In a good lively scrap he knows he would get the worst of it. If somebody's life depended on his own physical strength and endurance that person would probably die. He has no confidence in himself and he follows the line of least resistance. He is an object of pity or contempt. Exercise could make a new man of him.

It makes little difference what the character of the exercise is that you take so long as all the muscles are used vigorously without overstraining.

PERFUMED SANDWICHES
NOW COME INTO VOGUE

Perfumed sandwiches, bearing the scent of real flowers, are the latest vogue in afternoon refreshments, according to Janet F. Wing. The dainties were made years ago by fashionable hostesses, but they are just now returning to favor with suitable improvements.

"To make them," says Mrs. Wing, "trim the crusts off a loaf of bread. Wrap the butter in a piece of cheese cloth and put both the bread and butter in a deep bowl or kettle. Pile clover blossoms, nasturtium leaves and blossoms, roses or violets over and around. Cover and leave for five or six hours. Make into the thinnest of bread and butter sandwiches and decorate the plate with the flower that supplies the flavoring."

Other fashionable sandwiches, says the writer, are made from the thinnest slivers of bread, rolled up and tied with a bit of ribbon. For these the bread must be fresh.

PROPORTION EMPHASIZED FOR COLLEGE WARDROBE

Proper proportion in college wardrobes for girls is emphasized in Woman's Home Companion by Ethel Holland Little. A sense of proportion is what determines whether a girl is to be known as smart or whether she will be over-dressed on certain occasions and a bit down at the heel the rest of the time," says Mrs. Little.

A well balanced wardrobe for college wear should consist first of all of things that will be worn during the principal activities of school, study and sports. An all-around coat, probably of tweed, with a fur collar, will be suitable for practically all occasions. A leather jacket of finger tip length for sports and picnics is also considered desirable. An evening wrap is not a necessity at any college, but admirable little white rabbit jackets may be added as they go well with any colored evening dress.

A three piece jacket suit is the most appropriate for campus wear as it can be varied by being worn without the jacket as a two-piece suit or with a chukker shirt for serviceable woolen for hiking, picnics and similar wear, is invaluable to the college trunk.

Party dresses, and two of them, one for luncheons and teas and the other for informal evening affairs, should be simple, but with a distinctiveness of design. Dancing frocks should follow principally the whim of the wearer, but in no case should they be too elaborate nor as bouffant as in former seasons.

One serviceable felt cloche hat is good enough for all occasions but may be supplemented by something simple for strictly evening wear, and perhaps a baret. Two pairs of low heeled oxfords, a pair of high heeled shoes for day wear and dyed-silk pumps for evening complete the outfit. "And don't forget a comfortable bathrobe," warns Mrs. Little in conclusion.

THE BULL SESSION

It was in the wee small hours and yet the "bull session" was going strong but now the talk was of clothes. Joan, Edith and I decided to shop in Amarillo at the first good chance.

OFF TO AMARILLO

The chance came and we were off—but Amarillo had so many stores and we had so little time. But Joan's suggestion was unanimously carried for she had shopped quite a bit during the summer term—she had shopped at the Hollywood Dress Shoppe at 725 Polk Street and found just the things she wanted.

CO-ED HEADQUARTERS

They specialize in youthful modes and feature the Hollywood Collegiate Styles that are so fashionable. We arrived quite safely, thank you, and my—but it was such a delight to find a store that had just exactly the type of wearables we had in mind.

THE SPORT TOGS

We walked in and there were the sweaters! and skirts! just as I liked—then the knitted jersey dresses—of course we bought our outfit there, and the sweaters were only $2.95 and $3.95, and the jersey dresses from $6.95 up. Imagine that!

THE CAMPUS COAT

I needed a knockabout coat for campus wear and found the very thing I wanted in a junior size at $19.95. It was certainly a smart swaggy model.

THE CLASSROOM FROCK

Edith just had to have some frocks for the classroom and she found them at a bargain price, too! She bought two of the Missy Frocks for they were only $10.00 each. Feature that.

HOLLYWOOD JOY FROCK

You know I just can't resist temptation—I had to buy one of those Joy Frocks in the College special Group—the price, yes, only $16.75 and I know they are worth much more.

SMART DRESS COAT

We next looked at dress coats and they had such cunning princess and flare effects. Joan was nearly broke but she paid a small deposit on a cleverly treated black coat trimmed in red fox and she will get it out when colder weather comes.

FOR THAT HEAVY DATE

Edith felt that she just must have a dress-up dress (a nice descriptive adjective, don't you think), so she bought a chic little Hollywood velvet flare effect with a cocktail jacket. They have a Dress Club plan that makes the second and third dress come lower, so she saved enough on that dress to buy a couple pair of the new fall shades in hosiery.

A FEW WHATNOTS

And just as we were ready to leave, I saw a flapper hat that I couldn't overlook. And Joan saw a brown velvet jacket that she could wear on the campus—and at $5.95. We couldn't stay any longer and had to hot-foot it back to dear ole Cousins Hall and I won't dread shopping again in Amarillo for I'll just head for the Hollywood Dress Shoppe.

Today's Oakland All-American Six stands out unmistakably as America's finest medium-priced automobile. Its value supremacy has been established by facts revealed in comparison of the All-American Six with twenty other medium-priced automobiles. Let us go over all the results of this comparison with you. When you have seen how on every basis of comparison the All-American Six towers above its field—you will agree with us that you get more for your dollar in America's finest medium-priced automobile.

Proof of Oakland Value Superiority

The following facts were obtained from a comparison of the Oakland All-American Six with 20 other medium-priced automobiles. All told, $78 individual cars, which is 117 inches. That car requires a turning circle to the left of 41 feet as compared with Oakland's 36 feet. Six higher-priced cars have shorter wheelbases.

WHEELBASE

Only one car as low-priced as Oakland has a wheelbase as long as Oakland's, which is 117 inches. That car requires a turning circle to the left of 41 feet as compared with Oakland's 36 feet. Six higher-priced cars have shorter wheelbases.

FISHER BODY

Only Oakland and two other cars in the field offer bodies by Fisher. And one of the two is nearly $100 higher in price than Oakland. Of the 18 cars which have less known bodies, 11 are priced above the All-American Six.

BRAKES

Only Oakland and one other car in its field use the fine type of brakes which Oakland employs. And no car in the field equals Oakland's 290 square inches of brake band area. Oakland's separate emergency brake operates on the transmission. Seven cars in the field have no separate emergency brakes, although three of them exceed Oakland in price.

PISTON DISPLACEMENT

Oakland's 228 cubic inch piston displacement is greater than 12 of the 20 cars in its price field. Of the 8 remaining cars, 7 are much higher priced than Oakland.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list (f. o. b.) price when comparing automobile values. . . . Oakland's Pontiac delivered prices include only authorized charges for freight and delivery and the charge for any additional accessories or financing desired.

Athletes Often Do Better in Best, Says Paddock

Athletes have proven that it is only possible to do better than best, in the opinion of Char- Paddock, noted sprinter. Paddock tells how he reached conclusion. He, with Fred 1912 Olympic hurdling champion, visited Douglas Fairbanks' studio in Hollywood one day and saw the motion picture actor's way of exercising apparatus. It was a stair-like arrangement which Fairbanks could take one leap. Kelly and Paddock it and each landed on the next to the top. Fairbanks came out and, knowing that Doug- Paddock made the top step, Paddock Kelly tried again and both succeeded.

himself to do not only his best but better than his best." Watching the test at the studio was a high school athlete, Bud Houser, and several years later Paddock watched him as he came up for his last trial in the discus throw at the Paris Olympic games. A few months before the games Houser had broken his right hand, but had it strapped to his side and went resolutely to work learning to throw with his left. He had done well, but his Finnish opponent was far out in front. The incident at Fairbanks' studio came into his mind, he declared afterward, and putting better than his best into his left handed throw, the discus sailed out for a new Olympic record.

Four years later Houser appeared at Amsterdam facing the moment which would end his Olympic career or make him the only American who had won at Paris to win at Amsterdam. Paddock again watched him, knowing that Houser still had in his mind the lesson of the movie studio. Heavily handicapped, Houser put everything he had and a little bit more into his throw and won. "He had proved once more that he had the power to deliver not only his best but better than his best," concludes Paddock.

Do Farmers Benefit From Crop Reports?

How many farmers use crop reports. Probably no branch of the United States department of agriculture is more frequently criticized by those it is trying to serve than is the division which prepares the crop estimates. The complaint that it helps only dealers and speculators and should be done away with is frequently heard.

"Such a view is unreasonable and ostrich-like," a writer declares. When production is large, the high crop forecasts and estimates will be associated with falling or low prices, but they just as surely result in rising or high prices when they show light production. Growers of winter wheat certainly got some benefit from crop reports this year. Prices advanced in the face of record supplies coming to market. Buyers would not be ignorant of probable supplies if there were no official estimates. They would know approximately anyway, although the way would be open for putting out misleading reports.

"If dealers alone had the information, they would have a decided advantage in trading. The individual farmer would often be sadly misled by conditions in his own locality."

"Farmers who wish to do so will find plenty of advantage from the crop reports in their producing and marketing operations. The planting intention reports are particularly useful in making plans which will avoid excessive or scanty production and reduce the ups and downs in prices."

"Whether to sell at harvest or hold can best be decided by a study of supplies shown by the crop reports. Studies have shown that as much as 90 per cent of the change in prices in some crops depends upon the supply change, so that a reasonable expectancy as to the probable average price for the season can be determined from the supply."

"Even those farmers who object to government crop reports obtain some indirect benefits from them."

Movies Help to Consume America's Crops of Corn

There is still hope for the salvation of the great American corn raiser.

Corn has gone into the movies in a business like way. Heretofore the slap-stick comedies may have used a few roasting ears, with sound effects, but now corn is going into Hollywood in a determined manner and mingling with the great and near great in its most commonplace form—hominy.

"The film experts have discovered that there is nothing quite so good as corn flakes for faking a real, old-fashioned blizzard. The corn flakes are specially made from hominy and are thin, white and airy. A bushel of corn flakes and an electric fan will make a snow-storm anywhere, even in California."

ICE AND ICE CREAM FOUND IN SMOLDERING RUINS OF HOUSE

In working with electric connections among the smoldering timbers of a burned home at Childress, linemen opened a charred frigidaire and from its porcelain-lined chambers found two trays filled with ice cream and ice cubes. The searchers enjoyed ice cream and ice water for refreshments, according to the West Texas Utilities bulletin that reports the incident.

"For more than two years before I began taking Orgatone, I suffered with stomach and kidney trouble," said Mrs. E. R. Pigg, who resides at 2403 Sanborn Avenue, Amarillo, Texas.

"When I began taking Orgatone," Mrs. Pigg continued, "my entire system seemed to be all run-down. My back would sometimes hurt me so I could hardly stand up. I had no appetite, couldn't eat much of anything, and of course got badly run-down. I also had a great deal of trouble with gas pains and would try everything I could hear of for these troubles, but kept on suffering just the same. My strength and general health was leaving me all the time. I felt tired and worn out from one day's end to the other, and was hardly able to attend to my household duties."

"But it is all different now since I began taking Orgatone. It is really wonderful the way it has built me up. Why, do you know I have already gained eleven pounds in weight on only three bottles, and am strong enough to do my own housework with ease. I can get around now without those aches or pains and actually feel better than I have in years. It is certainly wonderful to feel well like I do now all the time and I am glad to have the privilege of making this statement because I believe it will be the cause of others getting relief."

Genuine Orgatone is manufactured by one of the world's largest laboratories and is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific bile treatment and is sold in Canyon by the Jarrett Drug Co.

I followed the direction of her glance. The dresser was bare, save for toilet articles.

Maryella looked at me, panic-stricken. "Why where are they? Will you look in the drawers?" I did. They were not to be found.

"Possibly Mrs. Lillilove picked them up," I consoled. "I'll ask her."

When Mrs. Lillilove was summoned she disclaimed having seen the jewels at all the previous evening.

"That thief must have taken them, then!" decided Maryella firmly.

I recollected that in order to get to the door Julius had been forced to pass the dresser on which the pearls lay. It was perfectly possible for him to have picked them up unobserved as he went by.

"What shall I do? I can never look Mrs. Hemmingway in the face again if I have lost them! They were very valuable. What shall I do? What shall I do?"

"I'll get them back," I declared heroically, not knowing into what depths my statement might lead me.

"Oh, will you, Tom?" Maryella exclaimed, dragged from the slough of despond by my confidence. "If you do, you can ask anything of me you want!"

My heart thrilled at the promise in her voice. With such a reward in sight I would have entered upon the labors of Hercules without a doubt in my own mind of accomplishing them.

I didn't know exactly what she meant, but I thought I would take a chance even though Jim Cooper had said they were engaged.

There was no time to be lost. Leaving Maryella to dress, I went down stairs to organize a posse to go in pursuit.

My announcement that I was going to lead another party to recapture the escaped convicts met with scant enthusiasm on the part of the old soldiers. One and all they politely declined. Even the sheriff did not respond to the idea with any zest.

"How can we catch them?" he objected. "We've got to follow on foot and they've got my horse."

"From what I've seen of your horse," I replied, "I don't think we will have much trouble in beating him in a race.

"He is a good horse," the sheriff argued, "and he is only nineteen years old, come next May."

"Well, let's go," I urged. "Even if you and I have to go alone."

The sheriff looked at his watch. "They are clear in town by this time," he observed, "and they'll be taking the 9:36 train out. We haven't got a chance. We'd have to get there in twenty minutes, and that ain't possible."

I groaned. It was only eight miles. There was no way of making the distance except by an airplane or—

There was an alternative. The ice boat!

I ran to the window. It was still on the lake where I had seen the boys rig it the day before.

I told the sheriff my plan. He was doubtful.

"I wouldn't trust myself on one of the dog-gone things. Terra cotta is good enough for me any time."

"Won't you go?" I asked. "I need some one to help me sail it."

"No sir ree! Not for a thousand dollars."

I turned to the rest of the men. "Who will go with me on the ice-boat to intercept our escaped prisoners before they catch the 9:36 train?"

My proposal was received with absolute silence.

"I will," said a voice from the

And so we did. I held the ice-boat with all sail set at the point where she went fastest.

Suddenly out of the white flurry loomed a black shape. It was one of the fishing shanties that dotted the lake. I tried to swerve and miss it, but it was too late.

Crash! The front end of the main beam went through it, breaking our forward stay and the jib halyard. The jib itself released, fluttered down. The ice-boat staggered and almost stopped.

Then slowly, she recovered headway, the wind filled the mainsail, and by holding a little harder on the tiller I discovered that I could still keep on the course.

Fortunately the mainmast was strong and even without the foremast stay it held. I doubted seriously whether we could come about and go on the other tack, but as long as we kept in the direction we were going there seemed every reason to suppose that we would last to the end of the trip if nothing further occurred.

A sudden cessation of snow revealed the town to us—and with it the train approaching the station on the other side of the lake.

Maryella looked back to see if I had observed. I nodded and held her a little higher.

Neck and neck we approached the station. I prayed for more wind, and when it wouldn't come I swore under my breath.

The train was nearly at the station.

Then came a squall. The ice-boat leaped forward once more with creaking mast. Our speed doubled. As the train pulled in I swung the ice-boat around sharply and abreast of the station.

As she came about the mast went over with a crash. Fortunately Maryella leaped clear of the

"Where are the pearls?" I demanded.

"I ain't got any pearls," he replied.

"Yes you have," I insisted. "You stole them from the dresser in that room where you hid!"

A crafty look came in Julius's eyes. He pondered a moment.

The train whistled.

"All aboard!" yelled the conductor.

"Will you let me go free if I tell you where the pearls are?" Julius asked.

I debated.

"Say 'yes,' Tom!" urged Maryella. "I must get them back at any cost."

"Yes, I'll let you go," Julius moved toward the platform of the car, which was getting under way.

"I'll tell you as soon as I get on the train."

Not quite understanding, I nevertheless ran on beside him and allowed him to mount the first step.

"Now where are they?" I demanded.

"They are on this train," said Julius, and then seeing the questioning look on my face he added, "I sent them to myself by parcel post. They are in the mail-car."

I dropped back, and the train pulled away. Julius waved at me from the car steps.

CHAPTER XIV
On the Mail-car

I gazed stupidly at the departing train.

"Where are the pearls?" asked Maryella, joining me.

"On that train," I explained. "He put 'em in the mail and sent them to himself, parcel post."

"And you let the train go off without you!" she reproached.

"He didn't tell me until it was too late for me to get aboard," I defended.

While we looked at the receding train it came to a gradual stop. I looked for the cause and noticed a water tank beside the track.

"Good-by," I said, with hastily formed resolutions, as I left Maryella and sprinted down the track.

I caught it. No need to go into details of the red spots before my eyes and the dry throat that burned me as I ran. As it pulled out I swung on to the rear platform.

I went into the car and went to the forward end where I could look into the coach ahead.

Yes, Julius was there finishing up his cigar all unconscious of my presence. I decided it would be just as well not to make a scene on the train, but to follow him to his destination and get the pearls when he claimed them at the post office.

So I sat where I could see the platform and note when he got off. After all I was redeeming myself for any blunders I had made in the past.

"Tickets," said a voice.

The conductor had entered the door just in front of me.

I had no ticket and explained it to the official.

He looked at me suspiciously. My clothing was a trifle nondescript.

"I had only just time enough to catch the train without stopping at the station," I offered.

My short-winded condition bore out my statement.

"All right. I don't care," he replied. You'll have to pay a little extra, that's all, by settling with me on a cash basis."

While he was asking me where I wanted to go I reached in my pocket for some money.

I found nothing but a hole. Up to that moment I had forgotten that I was wearing Comrade Dreyenfurth's "other" pants.

It's a terrible thing to be with out money among strangers. I know of no sensation akin to it.

"I left it in my other clothes," I said weakly.

"Is that so?" said the conductor scornfully eyeing me with a practiced gaze. "Don't try to kid me. You haven't any other clothes."

I was indignant, but what was the use.

"Cough up some money," said the conductor crossly, "or get off." He reached up suggestively for the bell cord which signals to the engineer.

"See if he has got the pearls," panted Maryella.

stairs. There stood Maryella, vivid with restored health.

"You're on!" I said. "Hustle. We've only got eighteen minutes now."

At my suggestion Maryella put on a pair of trousers over her other clothing and borrowed a man's coat and overcoat.

Thus equipped and accompanied by the protests of our companions we hastened down the hill. It was snowing again, but there was a gale of wind back of it.

It took me probably a minute to get the sails hoisted. At any rate, we had less than ten minutes in which to make town. Fortunately the wind was on the quarter and I knew what an iceboat was capable of when crowded to its utmost. Maryella had sailed a regular water craft before, so she knew how to handle a jib without instruction. I shoved off. She started very slowly. At first I feared that possibly she was too heavy for the sail expanse.

As soon as we got out in the lake however, away from the protection of a wooded point of land that projected from the bank near the institution, a heavier gale of wind struck us and with a leap like a frightened horse the ice-boat jumped it.

For the most part the ice was black and clear. Occasionally there was a small drift. When we struck them the rigging would rattle and we would slow up. But we went through every time, and out in the middle we struck a clear space, smooth, unbroken and hard.

A sudden squall of snow came with the wind, obscuring everything; but I knew how to steer from the wind. As long as I held her where she was we would reach Fair Oaks on one tack. The cold was stinging and the snow beat upon our exposed faces. My fingers were numb from holding the tiller, and so were Maryella's where she grasped the jib sheet.

But the exhilaration made the blood pump faster. The terrific, staggering speed, the hiss of the runners, the whine of the wind in the rigging and the occasional flap of the mainsail when I pointed up too high were music to my ears. We seemed not to be touching the ice at all; and indeed there were moments when we were running on only two runners. Maryella's weight was not sufficient to hold the windward shoe on the ice, and often it would jump a foot or more from the surface.

I looked at her inquiringly the first time it happened to see if she was frightened. She read the question of my glance.

"It's all right," she shouted. "I'll take a chance!"

rigging; and without further parley we raced up the bank. We got there while they were still unloading baggage.

On the platform, smoking a huge cigar in obvious contentment, was Julius. He had not seen us, and when I laid a heavy hand on his shoulder he looked up startled.

"I've got you," I exclaimed.

He made no reply to my obvious statement.

"See if he has got the pearls," panted Maryella.

It was a good suggestion. I hastily went through his pockets much to the amazement of the loafers at the station. He had nothing in them but some money and a knife.

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctor's word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

Fletcher's CASTORIA

Chicago Paves La Salle Street with Concrete

TO relieve intolerable congestion, and to provide a truly modern artery from the crowded "Loop" district north to Lincoln Park, Chicago is widening LaSalle Street to eighty feet between curbs, and paving this new thoroughfare with portland cement concrete.

The section from Washington Street, beside the City Hall, to Lake Street, was completed late in 1928.

Traffic flows over this modern pavement smoothly and safely. It never gets slippery—the surface is rigid and strong.

Drivers know they can give their entire attention to driving—they do not have to watch the pavement to avoid holes or ridges.

Chicago has had much experience with pavements. Concrete has been extensively used for several years. Property owners come to the City Hall to insist that concrete pavements be laid in front of their homes—on their boulevards and business streets. They know the folly of investing their money for street paving in anything less durable and satisfactory than concrete.

"I wouldn't trust myself on one of the dog-gone things. Terra cotta is good enough for me any time."

"Won't you go?" I asked. "I need some one to help me sail it."

"No sir ree! Not for a thousand dollars."

I turned to the rest of the men. "Who will go with me on the ice-boat to intercept our escaped prisoners before they catch the 9:36 train?"

My proposal was received with absolute silence.

"I will," said a voice from the

And so we did. I held the ice-boat with all sail set at the point where she went fastest.

Suddenly out of the white flurry loomed a black shape. It was one of the fishing shanties that dotted the lake. I tried to swerve and miss it, but it was too late.

Crash! The front end of the main beam went through it, breaking our forward stay and the jib halyard. The jib itself released, fluttered down. The ice-boat staggered and almost stopped.

Then slowly, she recovered headway, the wind filled the mainsail, and by holding a little harder on the tiller I discovered that I could still keep on the course.

Fortunately the mainmast was strong and even without the forward stay it held. I doubted seriously whether we could come about and go on the other tack, but as long as we kept in the direction we were going there seemed every reason to suppose that we would last to the end of the trip if nothing further occurred.

A sudden cessation of snow revealed the town to us—and with it the train approaching the station on the other side of the lake. Maryella looked back to see if I had observed. I nodded and held her a little higher.

Neck and neck we approached the station. I prayed for more wind, and when it wouldn't come I swore under my breath.

The train was nearly at the station.

Then came a squall. The ice-boat leaped forward once more with creaking mast. Our speed doubled. As the train pulled in I swung the ice-boat around sharply and abreast of the station.

As she came about the mast went over with a crash. Fortunately Maryella leaped clear of the

"Where are the pearls?" I demanded.

"I ain't got any pearls," he replied.

"Yes you have," I insisted. "You stole them from the dresser in that room where you hid!"

A crafty look came in Julius's eyes. He pondered a moment.

The train whistled. "All aboard!" yelled the conductor.

"Will you let me go free if I tell you where the pearls are?" Julius asked.

I debated.

"Say 'yes,' Tom!" urged Maryella. "I must get them back at any cost."

"Yes, I'll let you go."

Julius moved toward the platform of the car, which was getting under way.

"I'll tell you as soon as I get on the train."

Not quite understanding, I nevertheless ran on beside him and allowed him to mount the first step.

"Now where are they?" I demanded.

"They are on this train," said Julius, and then seeing the questioning look on my face he added, "I sent them to myself by parcel post. They are in the mail-car."

I dropped back, and the train pulled away. Julius waved at me from the car steps.

CHAPTER XIV
On the Mail-car

I gazed stupidly at the departing train.

"Where are the pearls?" asked Maryella, joining me.

"On that train," I explained. "He put 'em in the mail and sent them to himself, parcel post."

"And you let the train go off without you!" she reproached.

"He didn't tell me until it was too late for me to get aboard," I defended.

While we looked at the receding train it came to a gradual stop. I looked for the cause and noticed a water tank beside the track.

"Good-by," I said, with hastily formed resolutions, as I left Maryella and sprinted down the track.

I caught it. No need to go into details of the red spots before my eyes and the dry throat that burned me as I ran. As it pulled out I swung on to the rear platform.

I went into the car and went to the forward end where I could look into the coach ahead.

Yes, Julius was there finishing up his cigar all unconscious of my presence. I decided it would be just as well not to make a scene on the train, but to follow him to his destination and get the pearls when he claimed them at the post-office.

So I sat where I could see the platform and note when he got off. After all I was redeeming myself for any blunders I had made in the past.

"Tickets," said a voice.

The conductor had entered the door just in front of me.

I had no ticket and explained it to the official.

He looked at me suspiciously. My clothing was a trifle nondescript.

"I had only just time enough to catch the train without stopping at the station," I offered.

My short-winded condition bore out my statement.

"All right. I don't care," he replied. You'll have to pay a little extra, that's all, by settling with me on a cash basis."

While he was asking me where I wanted to go I reached in my pocket for some money.

I found nothing but a hole. Up to that moment I had forgotten that I was wearing Comrade Dreyenfurth's "other" pants.

It's a terrible thing to be with out money among strangers. I know of no sensation akin to it.

"I left it in my other clothes," I said weakly.

"Is that so?" said the conductor scornfully eyeing me with a practiced gaze. "Don't try to kid me. You haven't any other clothes."

I was indignant, but what was the use.

"Cough up some money," said the conductor crossly, "or get off."

He reached up suggestively for the bell cord which signals to the engineer.

stairs. There stood Maryella, vivid with restored health.

"You're on!" I said. "Hustle. We've only got eighteen minutes now."

At my suggestion Maryella put on a pair of trousers over her other clothing and borrowed a man's coat and overcoat.

Thus equipped and accompanied by the protests of our companions we hastened down the hill. It was snowing again, but there was a gale of wind back of it.

It took me probably a minute to get the sails hoisted. At any rate, we had less than ten minutes in which to make town. Fortunately the wind was on the quarter and I knew what an iceboat was capable of when crowded to its utmost.

Maryella had sailed a regular water-craft before, so she knew how to handle a jib without instruction. I shoved off. She started very slowly. At first I feared that possibly she was too heavy for the sail expanse.

As soon as we got out in the lake however, away from the protection of a wooded point of land that projected from the bank near the institution, a heavier gale of wind struck us and with a leap like a frightened horse the ice-boat jumped it.

For the most part the ice was black and clear. Occasionally there was a small drift. When we struck them the rigging would rattle and we would slow up. But we went through every time, and out in the middle we struck a clear space, smooth, unbroken and hard.

A sudden squall of snow came with the wind, obscuring everything; but I knew how to steer from the wind. As long as I held her where she was we would reach Fair Oaks on one tack. The cold was stinging and the snow beat upon our exposed faces. My fingers were numb from holding the tiller, and so were Maryella's where she grasped the jib sheet.

But the exhilaration made the blood pump faster. The terrific, staggering speed, the hiss of the runners, the whine of the wind in the rigging and the occasional flap of the mainsail when I pointed up too high were music to my ears. We seemed not to be touching the ice at all; and indeed there were moments when we were running on only two runners.

Maryella's weight was not sufficient to hold the windward shoe on the ice, and often it would jump a foot or more from the surface.

I looked at her inquiringly the first time it happened to see if she was frightened. She read the question of my glance.

"It's all right," she shouted. "I'll take a chance!"

rigging; and without further parley we raced up the bank. We got there while they were still unloading baggage.

On the platform, smoking a huge cigar in obvious contentment, was Julius. He had not seen us, and when I laid a heavy hand on his shoulder he looked up startled.

"I've got you," I exclaimed.

He made no reply to my obvious statement.

"See if he has got the pearls," panted Maryella.

It was a good suggestion. I hastily went through his pockets much to the amazement of the loafers at the station. He had nothing in them but some money and a knife.

TO relieve intolerable congestion, and to provide a truly modern artery from the crowded "Loop" district north to Lincoln Park, Chicago is widening LaSalle Street to eighty feet between curbs, and paving this new thoroughfare with portland cement concrete.

The section from Washington Street, beside the City Hall, to Lake Street, was completed late in 1928.

Traffic flows over this modern pavement smoothly and safely. It never gets slippery—the surface is rigid and strong.

Drivers know they can give their entire attention to driving—they do not have to watch the pavement to avoid holes or ridges.

Chicago has had much experience with pavements. Concrete has been extensively used for several years. Property owners come to the City Hall to insist that concrete pavements be laid in front of their homes—on their boulevards and business streets. They know the folly of investing their money for street paving in anything less durable and satisfactory than concrete.

First Assembly of Year Held Wednesday Morning

School has started again, folks! Top your play and get to work with all your might. That's what you go to school for, so let's make success of it.

There are a great many new students this year, and everyone hopes to get acquainted with them, and help them learn to love the school as well as the older students.

The classes are organizing and things are beginning to take form. A number of students multiples every year, and the new ones continue to come back each year. This shows just what kind of a school our school has on them.

The school is very proud of all the classes this year, but especially the senior class. It has a larger number of members than any other class that has ever been in H. S. It is hoped that in May everyone of them will graduate.

There is almost an entirely new faculty this year, including a new superintendent, Mr. I. B. Carruth. The students all know him as the principal of the last two years, and have learned to think a great deal of him.

This year can be made one of the most successful that Canyon has known if everyone will do his part, then there will be no doubt in making everything "go big."

Wouldn't It Be Wonderful?

If there were no dishes to wash in Home Economics?

If all Latin nouns couldn't be declined?

If Miss McFarland would become president of the club for the Promotion of Free-Student Talking in Study Hall?

If Miss Clark could lose interest in the solving of math problems and begin specializing on the correct expressions used in reading them?

If Miss Rusk were chained to a chair in the library every morning from 9 to 10?

If Misses Foster, Jordan and Rusk would realize the insignificance of history dates?

If Mr. Carruth would forget all about this "starting off with a bang stuff?"

If Coach Spann's feet were glued to the floor and he was forced to recite Antony's oration?

If Miss Hammond had never seen a mail order house catalogue that advertised English books.

If Miss Weter were tongue-tied and had lock-jaw?

If Mrs. Fry forgot the scales?

If Miss Russell spoke ten words a minute?

If Miss Dickenson forgot how to type detention lists?

It appears that everything is being merged nowadays except politics and religion.—Florence (Ala.) Herald.

Seniors Have First Class Meeting of Year on Friday

The Senior class of '29-'30 held its first meeting Friday, Sept. 14, at which the class officers were elected and many interesting plans made for the future.

When the news that a senior class meeting would be held was passed around, all the seniors began to get very excited; and when Mr. Carruth did finally call all the dignified seniors into the auditorium and talked to them about true class spirit and class lenity, everyone felt very important.

Mr. McDonald was unanimously chosen the sponsor for the coming year. Although he really wanted to be the sponsor of the freshmen, he decided to help the seniors out this year.

Miss Dorothy Rusk, who has been president of the class before, was chosen as the honored leader, and with the help of Woodrow Hazlewood, who is vice-president; Ruth Smith, secretary and treasurer; and the co-operation of the sixty-five other seniors, the class of '29-'30 is sure to be a grand and glorious one.

Seniors! This class has been a grand success in the past and it is destined, by people who have watched it all through high school, to be the largest, the smartest, and the most co-operative class that dear old Canyon High has ever produced. Come on Seniors! Let's fulfill that prophecy before school is out. Hurry now and let's get things started!

JUNIORS ORGANIZE

The juniors met for the first time Friday for the purpose of organizing. A large number was present, and much interest was shown. This class is expected to be one of the best junior classes that there has ever been in Canyon High school, and great things are to be expected from them. They not only expect to work hard but also to have a great deal of fun.

Miss Weter, the expression teacher, was unanimously elected sponsor, and she is one of the best in high school. Other officers that were elected were:

President, Herbert Slack.
Vice Pres., Betty Sternberg.
Secy-treas., Nancy Strain.

The chairman of the social committee, Elizabeth Jameson, appointed Mary Orton, Florine Bowman and Hosea Foster her committee.

Now, with these officers and members of the class, who couldn't make a grand success of the year's work? The juniors can, and they are going to.

DUMA

The Freshmen have it on everybody in one way—there are more freshmen. They had a visitor the other day, and he wanted to know if the ivory factory was making any money. He tapped a few freshmen on the head, but they did not see the point for a week afterwards. They may get somewhere yet, however.

Tragic Death of Stewart Jennings Saddens School

The visit of the Death Angel always brings sorrow, but a sorrow was cast over our entire little city Sunday evening when the untimely death of Stewart Jennings became known to his friends and school-mates.

In God's endless circle of years it matters not how long we live, but how well; and surely the short span of fifteen years was lived well by this friendly boy.

Stewart was born in Canyon, May, 1914. His school life was all spent in Canyon, where he was a junior at the time of his death.

The many admirable traits that made him the worth while boy that he was, endeared him to his classmates and companions. With his jolly, friendly disposition, he won his way into the hearts of those he came in contact. Through real merit he became a strong personality in school and community life.

The esteem in which he was held was shown by the number who came to attend the last rites which were held by Stewart's request at the Presbyterian church with Rev. Kunze officiating. The boys of the junior class were pall bearers and the girls had charge of the flowers. The large floral offerings were tender expressions of the place he held in each one's heart. He was laid to rest in Dreamland cemetery.

We extend our greatest sympathy to the bereaved family who are in great sorrow and feel so keenly the loss of their loved one.

FRESHMAN CLASS MEETING

Friday afternoon at four o'clock the Freshman class had its first meeting of the new school year. The Freshman are planning to make their class the best Freshman class Canyon High School has ever known, and this plan is being given the best attention since the first meeting was held.

The Freshman plan to elect their queen and all other celebrities if the seniors put out an annual. Not only do they plan to elect them, but they plan to stand by them and put them over in high style.

The business of the first meeting was carried out in the usual routine. Some few items were discussed; then the following officers were elected:

Vice Pres., Helen Reeves.
Treasurer, Pat McCormick.
Secretary, Maxine Middleton.
Reporter, Louise Wester.

Carruths Entertain School Faculty

Last Friday night Mr. and Mrs. Carruth entertained the public school teachers and their husbands and wives (if they were lucky to have such.)

The guests were met at the door by the host and the hostess, and it was not long until the sound of a school bell opened the program of the evening. Everyone had read the sign above the door "School-house District No. 1," which made them all feel as "pupils" instead of sedate teachers. Mrs. Carruth passed tally-cards with pictures and verses of school children on them. The students at their different "desks" (tables of forty-two and bridge) began their "lessons."

After playing for thirty or forty minutes the school bell sounded again for a few minutes recess. During this time Mr. Carruth passed a basket of fresh peaches and stick candy. Again the bell went ding, dong, and classes began. About ten-thirty the bell said that school was out for noon. The children ate their lunches which were in sacks. Upon opening the sacks, the lunches consisted of chicken salad sandwiches, pickles, deviled eggs, cookies and bottles of soda pop with straws. There were also balloons to blow up.

Those enjoying Mr. and Mrs. Carruth's unique entertainment were: Misses Barbara McClanahan, Crawford, Gamble, Strain, Wharton, O'Donald, Dickenson, Hammond, McCarty, Rusk, Foster, Weter, Jordan, Clark; Mesdames Collins, Fry, Murrell; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Strain, Hubert Hamill, Bill Black, Lee Foster, T. H. McDonald, Coach Spann, and Virgil Thomas.

FRESHMAN SIDE GLANCE

The Freshman class this term is somewhat smaller than that of '28, having the total enrollment of 63; thirty-four of this number completing last year's work out of the Canyon public school district.

The Freshman are very proud of their classmate, Thomas Elliston because of the graceful manner in which he dances, and of the great skill which he possesses in bronco riding.

Football Prospects Are Encouraging

By a Fan

Everyone is anxious to know what kind of a football team Canyon High is going to have. Well, folks, we think that this year's team is going to be one of the best ever turned out. There is a great deal of good material out; and with some of Spann's brisk training, our team is sure to come out on top.

Among the old letter men on the team are Captain James Cabe, Joe Jennings and Ralph Cabe. You have all seen the Cabe brothers and Jennings, and you know that their good consistent playing always gets them there. On the line there is Johnny Pool, center; "Cow" Williams, Cox, Hazlewood, all trying for ends; "Red" Covington and "Sheik" McDaniels, tackles, and Earl Cross in back to give some punch to the center rushes. These boys have all been here before, and we know what they can do; so, let's back them up.

The first game will be played at Borger, Friday, Sept. 20. Football fans, town people, and students, let's make our slogan—"Beat Borger!"

CHAPEL PROGRAM

In order to start the school year off right, a chapel program was held Thursday at which Mr. Carruth made several announcements pertaining to the rules and regulations in Canyon High. All the new students stood up and it seems that there are more new students in Canyon High this year than there has ever been. Mr. Carruth introduced the new teachers. There are several new ones this year, and it is the desire of the entire student body to become better acquainted with each of them.

Miss Weter, who is the new expression teacher gave two readings which gave her a perfect introduction.

Mrs. Fry, who will head the music department again this year, also gave herself a good introduction to the new students.

Secy-treas., Nancy Strain.

The chairman of the social committee, Elizabeth Jameson, appointed Mary Orton, Florine Bowman and Hosea Foster her committee.

Now, with these officers and members of the class, who couldn't make a grand success of the year's work? The juniors can, and they are going to.

DUMA

The Freshmen have it on everybody in one way—there are more freshmen. They had a visitor the other day, and he wanted to know if the ivory factory was making any money. He tapped a few freshmen on the head, but they did not see the point for a week afterwards. They may get somewhere yet, however.

Tragic Death of Stewart Jennings Saddens School

The visit of the Death Angel always brings sorrow, but a sorrow was cast over our entire little city Sunday evening when the untimely death of Stewart Jennings became known to his friends and schoolmates.

In God's endless circle of years it matters not how long we live, but how well; and surely the short span of fifteen years was lived well by this friendly boy.

Stewart was born in Canyon, May, 1914. His school life was all spent in Canyon, where he was a junior at the time of his death.

The many admirable traits that made him the worth while boy that he was, endeared him to his classmates and companions. With his jolly, friendly disposition, he won his way into the hearts of those he came in contact. Thru real merit he became a strong personality in school and community life.

The esteem in which he was held was shown by the number who came to attend the last rites which were held by Stewart's request at the Presbyterian church with Rev. Kunze officiating. The boys of the junior class were pall bearers and the girls had charge of the flowers. The large floral offerings were tender expressions of the place he held in each one's heart. He was laid to rest in Dreamland cemetery.

We extend our greatest sympathy to the bereaved family who are in great sorrow and feel so keenly the loss of their loved one.

FRESHMAN CLASS MEETING

Friday afternoon at four o'clock the Freshman class had its first meeting of the new school year. The Freshman are planning to make their class the best Freshman class Canyon High School has ever known, and this plan is being given the best attention since the first meeting was held.

The freshman plan to elect their queen and all other celebrities if the seniors put out an annual. Not only do they plan to elect them, but they plan to stand by them and put them over in high style.

The business of the first meeting was carried out in the usual routine. Some few items were discussed; then the following officers were elected:

President, Eva Miller.

Vice Pres., Helen Reeves.

Treasurer, Pat McCormick.

Secretary, Maxine Middleton.

Reporter, Louise Wester.

Pep leaders, Marie Landress and Thomas Elliston.

Sponsor, Miss Dickenson.

Carruths Entertain School Faculty

Last Friday night Mr. and Mrs. Carruth entertained the public school teachers and their husbands and wives (if they were lucky to have such).

The guests were met at the door by the host and the hostess, and it was not long until the sound of a school bell opened the program of the evening. Everyone had read the sign above the door "School-house District No. 1," which made them all feel as "pupils" instead of sedate teachers. Mrs. Carruth passed tally-cards with pictures and verses of school children on them. The students at their different "desks" (tables of forty-two and bridge) began their "lessons."

After playing for thirty or forty minutes the school bell sounded again for a few minutes recess. During this time Mr. Carruth passed a basket of fresh peaches and stick candy. Again the bell went ding, dong; and classes began. About ten-thirty the bell said that school was out for noon. The children ate their lunches which were in sacks. Upon opening the sacks, the lunches consisted of chicken salad sandwiches, pickles, deviled eggs, cookies and bottles of soda pop with straws. There were also balloons to blow up.

Those enjoying Mr. and Mrs. Carruth's unique entertainment were: Misses Barber, McClanahan, Crawford, Gamble, Strain, Wharton, O'Donald, Dickenson, Hammond, McCarty, Rusk, Foster, Weter, Jordan, Clark, Mesdames Collins, Fry, Murrell; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Strain, Hubert Hamill, Bill Black, Lee Foster, T. H. McDonald, Coach Spann, and Virgil Thomas.

FRESHMAN SIDE GLANCE

The Freshman class this term is somewhat smaller than that of '28, having the total enrollment of 63; thirty-four of this number completing last year's work out of the Canyon public school district.

The Freshman are very proud of their classmate, Thomas Elliston because of the graceful manner in which he dances, and of the great skill which he possesses in bronco riding.

Football Prospects Are Encouraging

By a Fan

Everyone is anxious to know what kind of a football team Canyon High is going to have. Well, folks, we think that this year's team is going to be one of the best ever turned out. There is a great deal of good material out; and with some of Spann's brisk training, our team is sure to come out on top.

Among the old letter men on the team are Captain James Cabe, Joe Jennings and Ralph Cabe. You have all seen the Cabe brothers and Jennings, and you know that their good consistent playing always gets them there. On the line there is Johnny Pool, center; "Cow" Williams, Cox, Hazlewood, all trying for ends; "Red" Covington and "Sheik" McDaniels, tackles, and Earl Cross in back to give some punch to the center rushes. These boys have all been here before, and we know what they can do; so, let's back them up.

The first game will be played at Borger, Friday, Sept. 20. Football fans, town people, and students, lets make our slogan—"Beat Borger!"

CHAPEL PROGRAM

In order to start the school year off right, a chapel program was held Thursday at which Mr. Carruth made several announcements pertaining to the rules and regulations in Canyon High. All the new students stood up and it seems that there are more new students in Canyon High this year than there has ever been. Mr. Carruth introduced the new teachers. There are several new ones this year, and it is the desire of the entire student body to become better acquainted with each of them.

Miss Weter, who is the new expression teacher gave two readings which gave her a perfect introduction.

Mrs. Fry, who will head the music department again this year, also gave herself a good introduction to the new students.
